Greg Brown -Who Woulda Thunk It

The full version is 'Who would have thunk it?', where thunk is used as a pseudo-archaic past participle of think (by analogy with drink/drunken). This rhetorical question (similar to 'Would you believe it?') can be used to express genuine surprise: Two games and nul points for Inter after their home defeat to Bayern Munich.

Short-cutting "Who would have thought it" or "I cant believe it"

Urban Dictionary: Who da thunk it

I have often used the phrase 'Some people think, and some people thunk.' where thunk is a verb with synonyms such as flunk (which, co-incidentally, rhymes with thunk), fail etc. This usage also makes a witty double pun with thunk (flunk,fail) in reference to thunk (a flat hollow sound). Thunking could therefore be defined as not thinking.
